Abstract:
Scope and Content:	The Carol Wills Journals Collection contains the personal journals and scrapbooks of Carol Wills. The journals date from 1993-2014, with several volumes written each year. Wills discusses her daily life, her family and friends, current events, community life in Durham, NC, and her involvement with The Independent Weekly newspaper, Duke University, and First Presbyterian Church. The journals also contain photographs, correspondence, newspaper clippings, drafts of writings, and other ephemera. Except for a few limited instances, these additional materials have been maintained in their original locations within the journals. The collection also contains a draft of a brief memoir written by Wills from 2004.

Biographical/Historical Note:	Born in Tennessee, Carol Wills has been a long-time resident of Durham, North Carolina. She worked at The Independent Weekly newspaper from 1984-2000, where she served in a number of capacities, including office manager, contributing writer, and assistant editor. Among her contributions, she wrote many pieces for the "Front Porch" column, where she discussed local issues. Wills went on to work in the office of the Duke University School of Nursing. She also worked in the offices of First Presbyterian Church. Wills has been an active member of the community in other ways, as well. She served on the board of directors of the Carolina Justice Policy Center. She has been an active member of First Presbyterian Church and the broader spiritual community of Durham. Herself a poet and artist, Wills is also a supporter of the arts in North Carolina. Family has

	also been of great importance to her. She has two daughters, Amy and Sara, and a granddaughter, Beatrice, all of whom live in Chapel Hill. She has been married and divorced three times.
