Durham County Library to Open for Sunday Hours

Durham, NC — Beginning Sunday, October 5, Durham County’s Main Library location in downtown Durham will reopen for Sunday hours. The Durham community is invited to visit from 1 – 6 p.m. Please note that Durham County Library’s six other brick-and-mortar locations throughout the County will remain closed on Sundays. Accompanying Sunday hours at Main Library is a modification of the Bragtown Branch Library’s Monday hours. The location will now be open Monday – Friday, 10 a.m. – 6 p.m.

“Opening Main Library’s doors for an additional day of service on Sundays and adjusting our Bragtown Branch’s hours is an excellent way for us to meet the needs of our community,” said Stephanie Fennell, Interim Library Director. “Visit us to check out books, use a computer, or just to pass the time! We can’t wait to welcome you to our downtown location.”

Sunday reopening is another great opportunity to experience all the library has to offer. For additional information on library hours and locations, please visit DurhamCountyLibrary.org/hour-and-locations.
